

Where wildlife have the right-of-way.

We're not talking about the kind of wildlife you find after too much après ski. We mean the elk, deer, wolves, sheep, coyotes and other animals who this land belongs to. So when you think you've got run after run all to yourself, remember, this is Canada's Protected Playground™, a place where wildlife walk the streets as casually as skiers and snowboarders, and you never know what you'll see on the next slope.

This is where real happens. Three of the world's finest ski resorts, almost 8,000 acres of terrain, all in the heart of Canada's Protected Playground™, Banff National Park.
